

Eyerly Family History

1714-1972

Prologue

Originally published in 1974, the Eyerly Family History 1714-1972 by Dean Randall Eyerly (Deerfield, IL) was scanned into electronic form in 2018 for all to enjoy. The mere fact that, 44 years later, this historical chronicle is still in demand speaks volumes of its historical importance. Had Dean (and family) not detailed and preserved the family stories contained herein, they would almost certainly have become lost in the passing of generations long ago.

Through the marvels of technology, we hope digitization preserves these important family stories from being lost for another 44 years... and beyond! Hopefully this allows even more widespread use of the book, searchable in electronic databases worldwide, and easily available for yet-unborn generations of Eyerlys to enjoy.

It could not be said any better than an excerpt of an email received from the author, Dean Randall Eyerly in July of 2018:

Mon 7/30/2018, 4:49 AM

I am pleased that you are interested in our Eyerly family history. For one who was 'dragged' from Chicago to the Eyerly Reunions in Winterset, Iowa as a teenager, I now appreciate our clan as being truly remarkable...

...a few years ago, several of my immediate family and I returned to Winterset for an Eyerly Reunion - It was the best of times! All cousins who were present in 1954 as teenagers were now in their early 70s. I have never met an Eyerly who I didn't like - all hard working, and honest. More than anything, very appreciative of the world they live in and the world they came from...

...The Eyerly book was originally done because of requests made by those present at a Winterset summer reunion. The research process was a 'hoot' because I got to meet with and talk to Eyerly's from all around the country - great people - willing to help out...

...As far as I am concerned, scan the Eyerly book for all to enjoy. We have a truly great family. Hope to see you guys one of these days soon. Give my best to all.

Best regards,

Dean

PREFACE

The Eyerly Family history was started in 1968 and completed in 1974. The information contained in this history is factual, being based on information collected from property deeds, tax records, birth and death records, historical essays and information supplied by genealogists.

This history is divided in two areas of concern:

The first examines the family history to the death of Samuel M. Eyerly in 1871;

The second deals with the children of Samuel and their offspring.

DEDICATION

The Dedication of a book is usually made to a person known and respected by the author. This work is dedicated to a lady whom I have never met, but love and respect greatly.

Over the past six years, I have had the opportunity to meet Elsie Ferrin Fisk through letters. She is a woman in her nineties, who throughout the years has shown a keen interest in and love for the family. During the past thirty years, she has spent many hours in search of our family origins; the work I have completed is merely an extension of her efforts.

In a letter sent to me, Elsie wrote:

"It is impossible for a family to know where it is going, unless it knows where it has been."

It is in this spirit that this family history is dedicated to Elsie.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

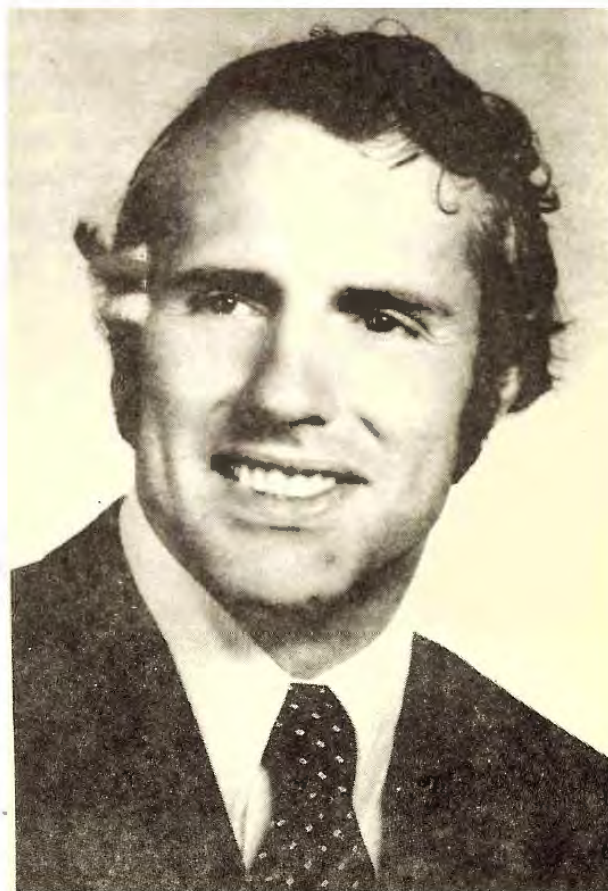

I decided to put this section into this record not because my life has been any different from yours, but because many of you would probably wonder who Dean Eyerly is and where he is located in the family.

I am the second son of John Hugh Jackson Eyerly (page 62) and was born in Chicago, Illinois, on February 25, 1941. Throughout my thirty-three years of life, I have remained in Chicago, and it was here I met my wife, Carey Louise Klode in 1966. On June 17, 1967, Carey and I were married in her hometown, Milwaukee, Wisconsin. After two years of marriage, Carey and I were blessed with the arrival of our little girl, Robin Dawson Eyerly, who was born October 10, 1969.

Throughout my childhood, my brother Brian and I were taken back to Winterset, Iowa for the annual family reunions.

The interest of the various members of the families gathered in Winterset in our family history was the motivating force behind my research. As I gathered more and more information on our genealogy, I was able to contact many relatives whom I would not have otherwise met.

As this history reaches completion, I wish to thank all of those people who have made this effort so successful.

Sincerely,

Dean Eyerly

Dean Eyerly.

PART I: 1714 - 1871

THE FAMILY HISTORY UP TO THE
DEATH OF SAMUEL M. EYERLY - 1871

THE FAMILY NAME

The original family name as it entered America, from Germany in 1744 was spelled "Eier". Upon the immigrants arrival at the Port of Philadelphia, the spelling was changed to "Eyer". It was the practice of the English clerks recording ship's records and persons taking the oaths of allegiance to write the German names as they sounded in English. Accordingly, from 1744 to 1777, the name "Eier" was used interchangeably with "Eyer". In 1777, with the writing of the last Will and Testament of Hans Eier (Alias John Eyer)¹, the name officially changed to "Eyer."

The word "Eier" in German is plural for the English word "egg". The suffix "ly" has the German meaning "son of" and based upon customs of the time, was used to denote the children of the immigrant. Accordingly with the birth of Jacob Eier (Eyer) in 1746 and his brothers, our family name began to change to "Eyerly".²

THE TRIP TO AMERICA³

The first colonization of America began on the east coast in 1600 with the greatest population growth of the colonies taking place between 1670 and 1754. During that time, the total colonial population increased from 85,000 to over 1,500,000 people. The rapid growth of the colonies was due mainly to the great influx of immigrants from Europe.

In 1682, William Penn founded a colony in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania and began his "holy experiment" which created a government based upon religious freedom. By 1700, owing to the connections William Penn made in Germany, Philadelphia became the principle port of entry for foreigners. Most of the immigrants took up land in York and Lancaster counties, creating the prosperous farms and building the great barns that are still a feature of the landscape today.

Most of the Germans who immigrated to America, belonged to religious sects that were discriminated against at home: Mennonites, Moravians, Dunkaras (German Quakers), Pietists (Puritanic Lutherans).

Crossing the Atlantic in a sailing ship could seldom be a pleasure before the Clipper-ship era, but it was never tougher than in the 18th Century. The trip to America from Germany began in early May of each year with a seven month boat ride up the Rhine River from Central Germany to Rotterdam, with arrival in Rotterdam scheduled for the end of October.

¹ As you read the Last Will and Testament of John Eyer, dated February 18, 1777, you will note that John Eyer is actually Hans Eier. Immigrants who could not read or write English were legally referred to as "John" as in "John Doe". In this case, Hans' name legally became John and his surname "Eier" was americanized to "Eyer".- Clyde Groff, Genealogist, Lancaster, Pa.

² Jack Dukes, Professor of Germany History, Carroll College.

³ Oxford History of American People by Samuel Eliot Morison, 1965.

In Rotterdam, the immigrants were transferred to ocean-going sailing ships for a two week trip to either Cowes or Poole, England. After a week layover in England, the trip to America and the Port of Philadelphia would begin.

The trip across the Atlantic took between seven to twelve weeks, depending upon the weather conditions at sea. Gottlieb Mittelberger, who came to Philadelphia in 1750, described the misery during the voyage: "Bad drinking water and putrid salt meat, excessive crowding, lice so thick that they could be scraped off the body, sea so rough that the hatches were battened down and everyone vomited in the foul air; passengers succumbing to dysentery, scurvy, typhus, canker and mouth rot." Children under seven rarely survived the voyage and in his ship no fewer than 32 passengers died. One vessel, carrying 400 Germans from Rotterdam in August, 1738, lost her master and three quarters of the passengers before running aground after a four month voyage.

Upon arrival at the Port of Philadelphia, the first duty of each immigrant was to take the oath of allegiance to the Queen of England.

THE ORIGINAL IMMIGRANTS ⁴

The original "Eier" immigrants to America were:

1. HANS EIER - arrived at the Port of Philadelphia on December 22, 1744 aboard "Muscliffe Galley" whose captain was George Durrell. The ship was last of Poole, England and Rotterdam. In 1744, a total of 9 ships brought immigrants to America from Germany. Hans was born in Durrmenz, Wurttemberg, Germany,⁵ 1714.
2. MARDIN EIER - arrived at the Port of Philadelphia on September 28, 1749 aboard "Ann" whose captain was John Spurrier. The ship was last of Cowes, England and Rotterdam. In 1749, 22 ships brought immigrants to America from Germany. Mardin was born in Durrmenz, Wurttemberg, Germany, 1719.
3. ULRICH EYERLY - arrived at the Port of Bethlehem, Pennsylvania in 1751. Ulrich was born 1725, Durrmenz, Wurttemberg, Germany.
4. JOHN JACOB EYERLY - arrived at the Port of Bethlehem, Pennsylvania on September 14, 1753. John Jacob was born 1728, Durrmenz, Wurttemberg, Germany.

After much study, it appears that Hans and Mardin were brothers and that John and Ulrich were the sons of Ludwig Eier who remained in Germany and was also a brother of Hans and Mardin.

Accordingly, any person bearing the Eyerly name in America is a descendant of one of these four men and are all related.

Only the lineage of Hans Eier will be studied as he is the grandfather of Samuel M. Eyerly.

THE HANS EIER FAMILY

Hans Eier was born in Durrmenz, Germany in 1714. In his late twenties, Hans left home to travel to America.

Shortly after his arrival at the Port of Philadelphia on December 22, 1744, Hans traveled to Lancaster County, Pennsylvania where he settled in the town of Warwick. While living in Warwick, Hans met Catharina Stouffer and they married in 1746. At the time of their marriage, Catharina was widowed and had two girls by the names of Susan and Magdalena.

While living in Warwick,⁶ Hans and Catharina gave birth to four children between 1747 and 1750. These children were: Jacob, Mary, Abraham and Barbara.

In 1750, the family moved to Lebanon, Pennsylvania where they were to remain until 1768. During this period, four more children were born; Christian, Catharina, Elizabeth and John. In June of 1768, the family moved back to Warwick and bought a 680 acre farm from George Pfiel and his wife, Veronica.

The oldest son, Jacob, remained in Lebanon where he farmed the land and undertook the profession of miller. While in Lebanon, he met Anna, whom he married in 1770. In 1777, Jacob and Anna moved to Franklin County, Pennsylvania where he raised six boys: John, David, Henry, Samuel and George.⁷

John, Jacob and David were born between 1782 and 1793, while Henry, Samuel and George were born between 1801 and 1808 near Funkstown, Maryland.

On March 30, 1782, Hans Eier died at his home in Warwick. Shortly after his death, Christian Eier (Eyerly) went to Lebanon, after selling the family homestead in Warwick to Andrew Betz. In 1790, Christian moved to Dauphin County, Pennsylvania where he married and raised his family.

In 1776, Abraham Eier (Eyerly) married Catharine in Union County, Pennsylvania and moved to Northumberland County, Pennsylvania in 1784. In 1790, their first son, Abraham Eyerly, Jr. was born.

In 1784, John Eier (Eyerly) also moved to Northumberland County, Pennsylvania.

On April 18, 1823, Jacob Eier (Eyerly) died in Lebanon, Pennsylvania.

⁶

Warwick, Pennsylvania is located eight miles north of Lancaster, Pennsylvania.

⁷

1740-1790 tax records for Lebanon, Franklin, Lancaster, Northumberland Counties show Jacob, Abraham, Christian and John as both "Eier" and "Eyerly". These records also show the family migration through Pennsylvania.

SAMUEL MINSKY EYERLY-HARLAN-MARY THUMA EYERLY
(1803-1871) (1815-1900)

Mary Thuma Eyerly was born August 9, 1815 in Cumberland, Pennsylvania. Mary was the sixth of twelve children born to John Thuma (original name as he entered America: Johannes Dumma), a preacher, and Eva Ann Waxen. John Thuma was born April 30, 1786 in Frankford Township, Cumberland County, Pennsylvania; Eva Ann Waxen was born 1787.

In 1832, John and Eva moved to Lexington, Ohio where on July 18, 1838 John passed away as did Eva in 1872.

1803 - 1871

Samuel M. Eyerly was born in Washington County, Maryland on May 6, 1803.⁸ He was the fifth son of Jacob Eier and was raised in the town of Funkstown, Maryland. As a boy, Samuel helped his father farm the land and worked as a miller. In later life, Samuel also became a farmer and an accomplished contractor.

On May 25, 1830, Samuel married Mary Ann Slyder, who was born in Franklin County, Pennsylvania. The wedding took place near Hagerstown, Maryland, and was performed by the Rev. John Funk. There were no children by this marriage as Mary Ann died after only six months of marriage at the age of 20 years.

On March 30, 1832, Samuel married Regina Hiskey of Cumberland, Maryland. The wedding was performed in Hagerstown by Rev. Valentine Hiskey, father of the bride. While living in Hagerstown, a son Daniel Hiskey⁹ was born on February 28, 1833.

Shortly after the birth of Daniel, the family moved to Franklin County, Pennsylvania and later that year to Lexington, Ohio. While in Lexington, three more sons were born to Samuel and Regina. These boys were; Josiah Bartlett, born October 28, 1834, William Rinehart born September 21, 1836¹⁰, and Benjamin Abbott, born December 17, 1838.

On December 28, 1838, Regina Hiskey died in Lexington, Ohio because of complications in the birth of Benjamin. At death, Regina Hiskey was 25 years old.

Three months after the death of Regina, Samuel married Mary Thuma. The wedding took place in Mansfield, Ohio on March 28, 1839.

While in Lexington, Ohio, Mary Thuma gave birth to three children: Mary Ann born January 11, 1841, George W., born January 17, 1843 and Erastus S. born September 12, 1844.

In September of 1845, Samuel and his family went to Iowa and settled on government land in Keokuk County. In 1846, he moved to Washington County, Iowa and settled on Dutch Creek Prairie. At that time, there were but a few families living in the County and there was nothing to be seen but grass-covered prairies, and occasional groves of oaks. His first work upon his arrival was to erect a log cabin, which remained the family home for some time. Samuel found considerable demand for his trade as new settlers came into the county and he built many of the first frame houses in Washington County. In 1858, Samuel moved to Jefferson County, Iowa where he bought valuable farm land. Two years later, in 1860, he went to Jasper County, where he farmed and followed his trade until 1863, in which year he came to Madison County and settled in the Town of Winterset. He worked at carpentering and farmed a small tract of land

Shortly after the Civil War, Franklin County, Pennsylvania and Washington County, Maryland were reapportioned along the state boundary lines; accordingly, Samuel Eyerly probably did much less traveling between counties than this history indicates.

Daniel later changed his middle name to Harrison in honor of President Harrison.

William later changed his middle name to Rosecrans in honor of Gen. Rosecrans of the Union Army.

with his youngest son, James Harlan, three of his sons (William, Josiah, George) having enlisted in the army. A short time prior to his death, he returned to Jasper County and passed away in the town of Newton on May 3, 1871 at the age of 67 years, 11 months. Samuel was very prominent in the early Methodist Episcopal Church and while living in Washington County helped organize the first church of that denomination. Samuel was very active in Sunday School work believing that to influence the children is to determine the lives of men and women of tomorrow.

Between 1846 and 1862, Samuel and Mary Thuma gave birth to the last seven children who were: Nancy Jane, born July 27, 1846, Harriet Wiseman, born July 10, 1848, Catherine Ellen, born July 15, 1850, infant son, born June 15, 1852, Mary Edna, born September 25, 1854, Sara Alice, born July 8, 1857 and James H., born November 11, 1862.

THE BROTHERS OF SAMUEL M.

1. John, Jacob and David Eyerly were born in Franklin County, Pennsylvania between 1782-1793. John and Jacob settled in Canton, Illinois; their offspring fanned out to California, Missouri, Oregon. I assume that David Eyerly died at an early age as no record of him can be found.

2. Henry Eyerly was born May 10, 1801 near Hagerstown, Maryland and died on August 16, 1859 in Funkstown, Maryland. His wife Elizabeth Garling, was a native of Franklin County, Pennsylvania. She was born in 1804 and died in 1862. Both husband and wife are buried in the Reform Church graveyard in Funkstown, Maryland. Henry Eyerly was for many years one of the leading builders and contractors in Washington County, Maryland. Some of the finest barns and dwellings are still standing as evidence of his skillful workmanship. Between 1826 and 1849, Henry and Elizabeth gave birth to eleven children: Catherine, Hezekiah, Mary (died at birth), Elizabeth, Helen, Emma J., Albert J., Daniel H., George M., Benjamin F., John E. All of the children remained on the east coast with the exception of Benjamin who moved to Canton, Illinois and John, who went to Montana.¹¹

3. George Eyerly was born in 1808 near Clear Springs, Maryland. At an early age, George moved to Canton, Illinois where he married Anna. He passed away in 1889.

Of this marriage were born 9 children between 1831 and 1845; Joseph, Ella, Ben, Mark, Samuel J., Charles F., Harriet, Margaret, Jefferson.

Mr. Howard Eyerly
Garfield, Wash.

My dear Mr. Eyerly:

A letter dated Oct. 5, 1914, from you to my brother, Charles Henry Eyerly, Hagerstown, Md., has just been handed to me for reply. At the time of receiving your letter, my brother intended answering it but somehow it was mislaid and is now found again. Both he and I are glad to learn of you and of the possibility that our lines of descent may lead back to a common ancestry.

My grandfather's name was Henry Eyerly, a barn-builder and later a farmer, near Hagerstown, Md. He was born May 1, 1801 and died Aug. 16, 1859. He had two brothers, John and Jacob, who went "West" at an early day. Another brother, George, went to Canton, Ill., where his descendants are still living.

I have always been told my grandfather Eyerly had come from Pennsylvania. From an old account book beginning 1792 we have always inferred that the father of my grandfather was Jacob Eier or Jakob Oyer, both names appearing in the book in German script. The names of Samuel and Henry Eyerly appear in English script near the middle of this book.

My brother, who is a merchant in Hagerstown, Md., and I, who am a teacher in the University of South Dakota, would be exceedingly glad to know something of your ancestors, particularly as I think likely (since the name is so uncommon and the early form was Oyer) they meet in the same family tree with our own.

Will you not be kind enough to write me soon regarding this matter?

Very truly yours,

E. K. Eyerly

When she read her title clear
To mansions in the skies,
She made farewell to every fear
And wiped her weeping eyes,
Should earth against the soul engage
And fiery darts be hurled,
Then she can smile at Satan's rage
And face a frowning world.

Let cares like wild deluge come
Let storms of sorrow fall
So she but safely reach her home
Her God, her heaven, her All.

There she shall bathe her weary soul
In seas of heavenly rest
And not a wave of trouble roll
Across her peaceful breast.

A LETTER FROM JAMES BUCHANAN

Wheatland, Pennsylvania
March 11, 1864

Mr. Samuel Eyerly

My Dear Sir:

I feel greatly indebted to you for your kind letter and old book of sermons which accompanied it. I accept this thankfully as a relic of my father, purchased at the sale of his property after his deceased, by your father more than forty years ago.

I recollect that he lived on the Moorhead farm and am glad to learn that he considered my father as one of his best friends. Both have gone to their long home and their sons are now far advanced in the path that leads to the place appointed for all living.

I am now nearly seventy-three years of age and a very different man from what I was when I took dinner at your father's house.

Well, thanks to a kind Providence, I enjoy good health, considering my age, and a contented and tranquil spirit. I could be happy were it not for the terrible condition of the country. But, God reigns and this is my consolation.

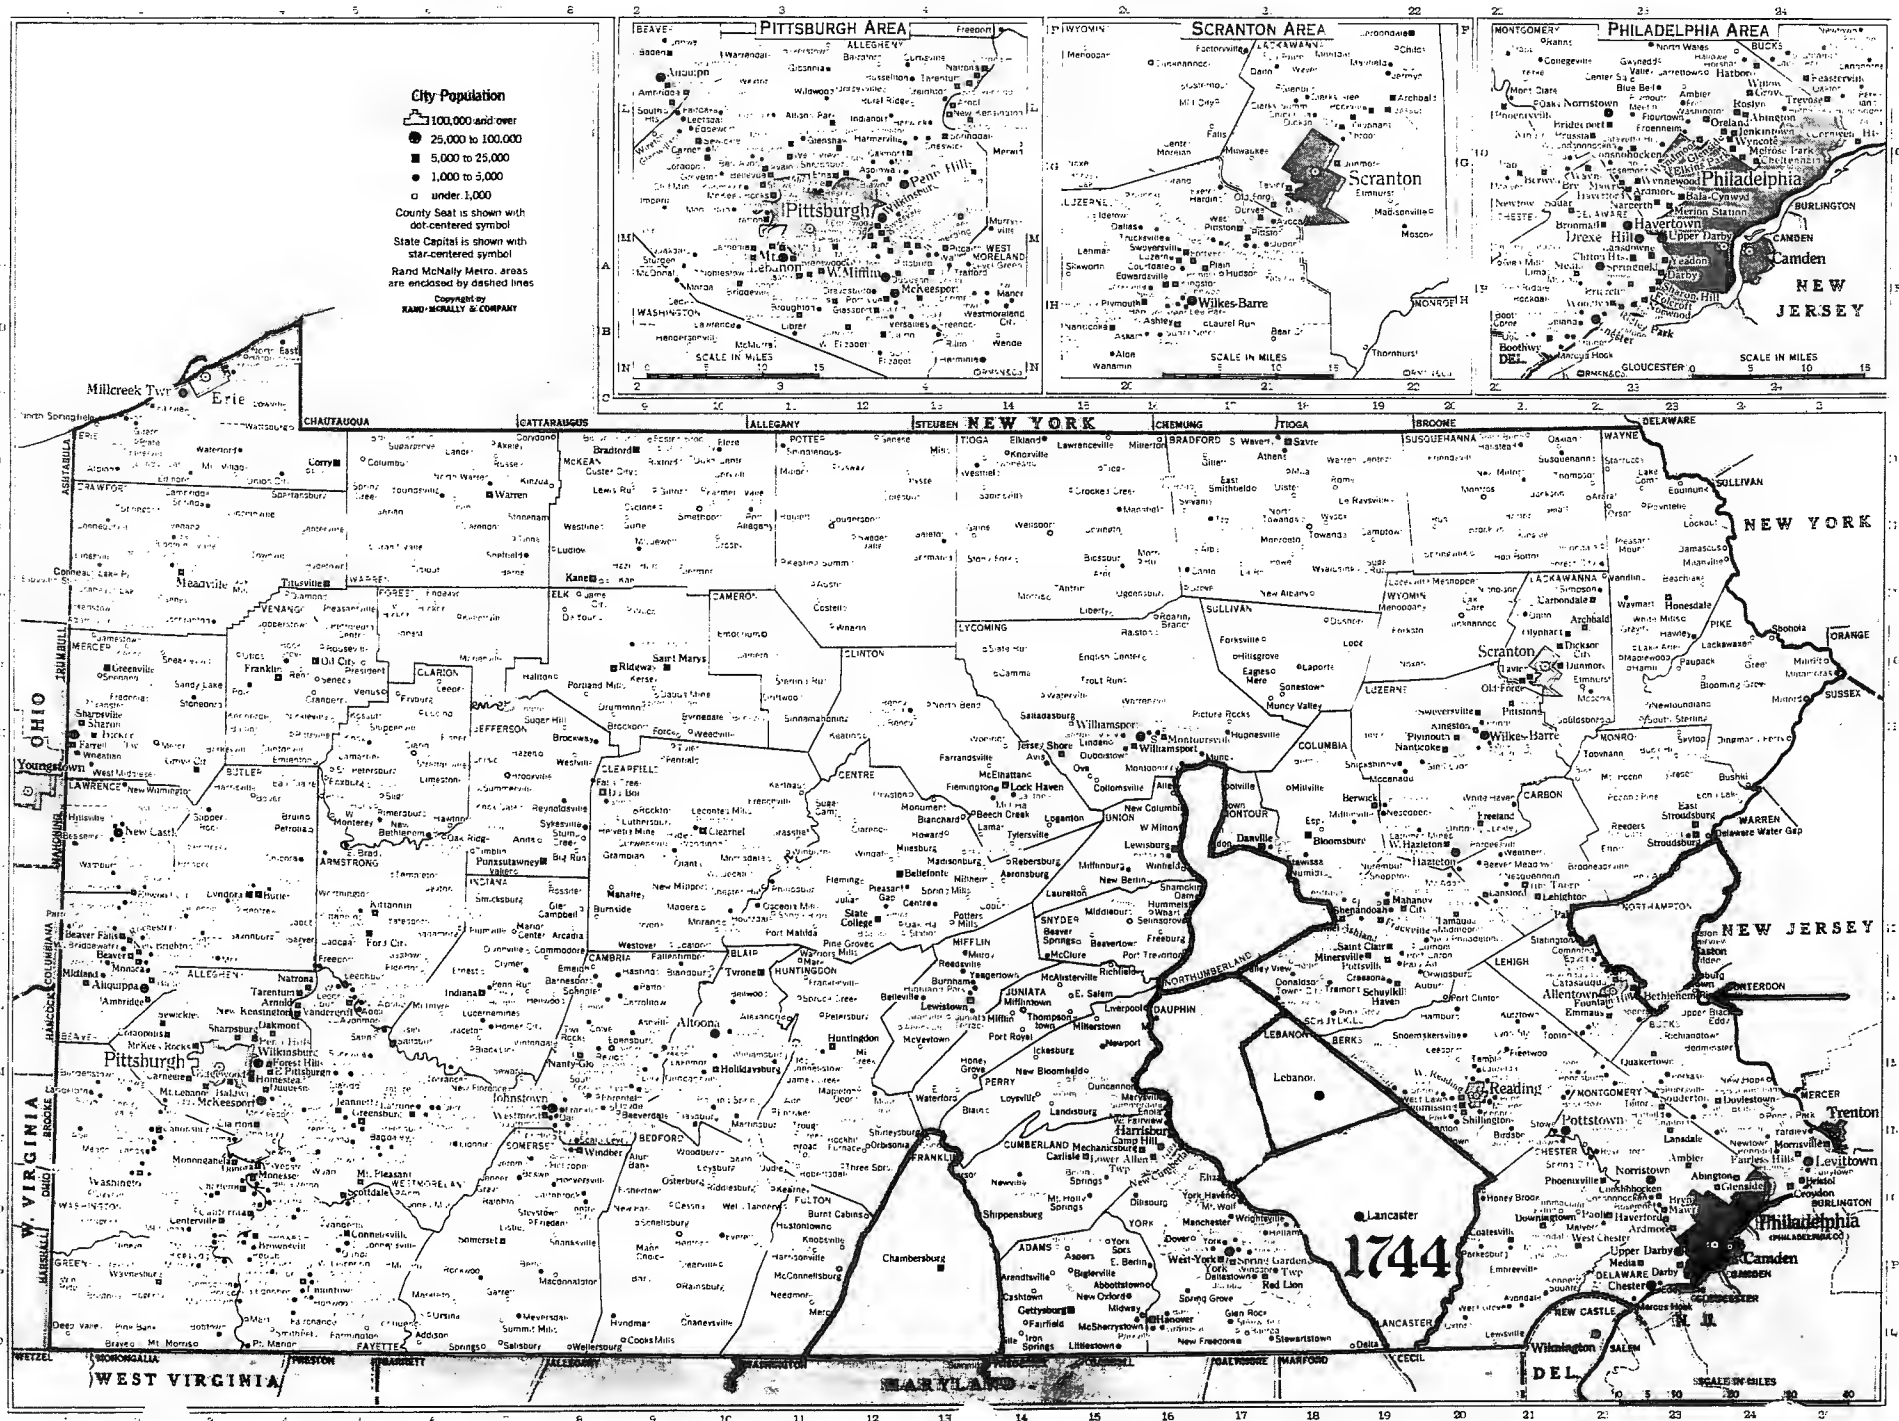

I am glad to know that though poor in this world's goods you feel rich in Christ Jesus. This is an unspeakable consolation, for according to the text of the first sermon in the old book to which you refer, "For what is a man profited if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

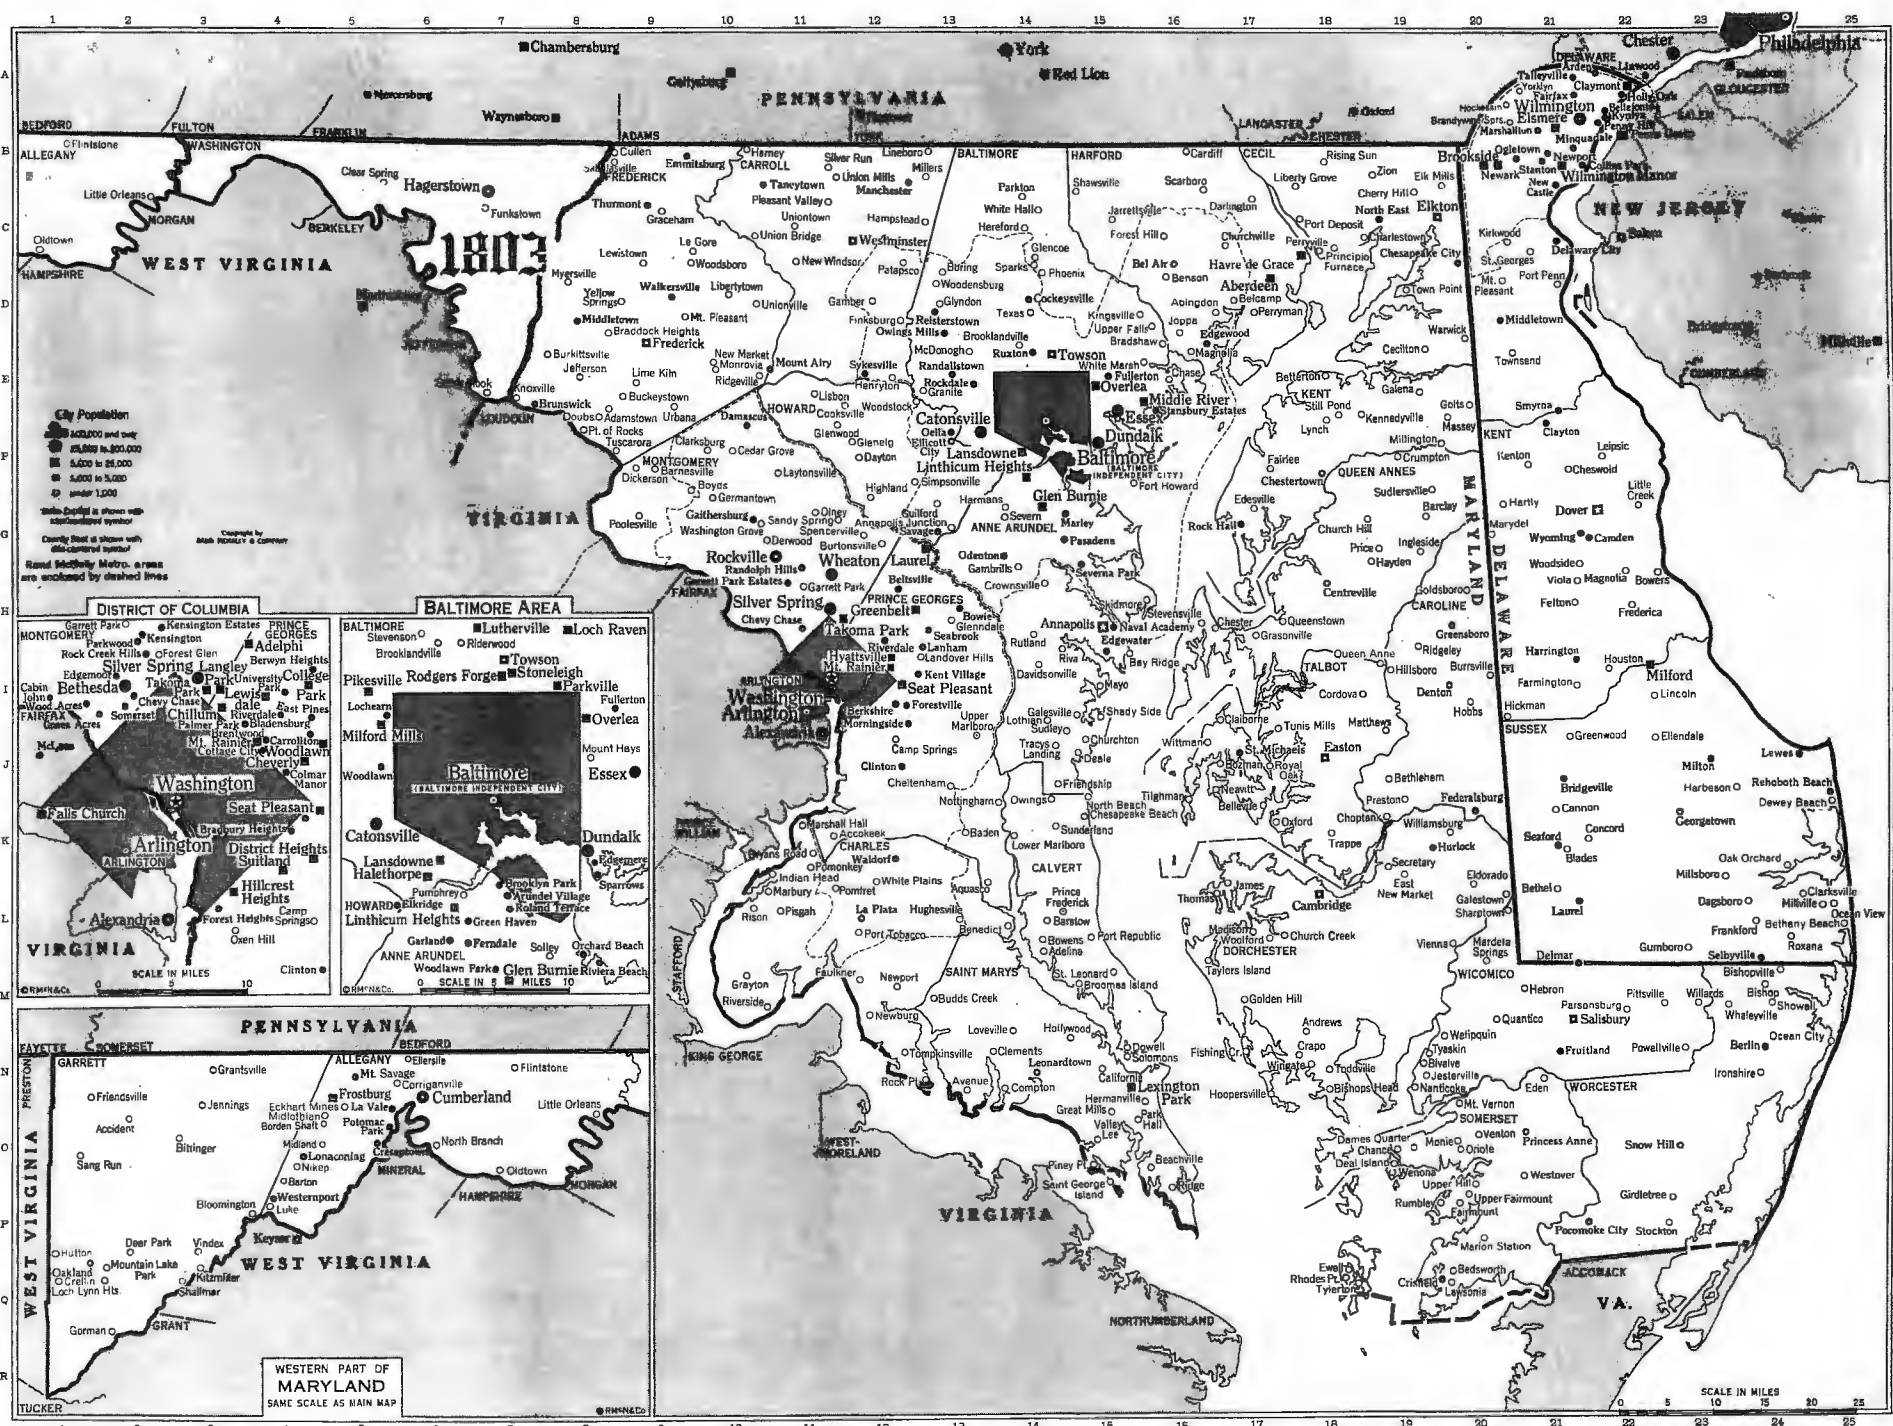

We cannot hope ever to meet on earth but my best wishes shall attend you and yours both for time and eternity.

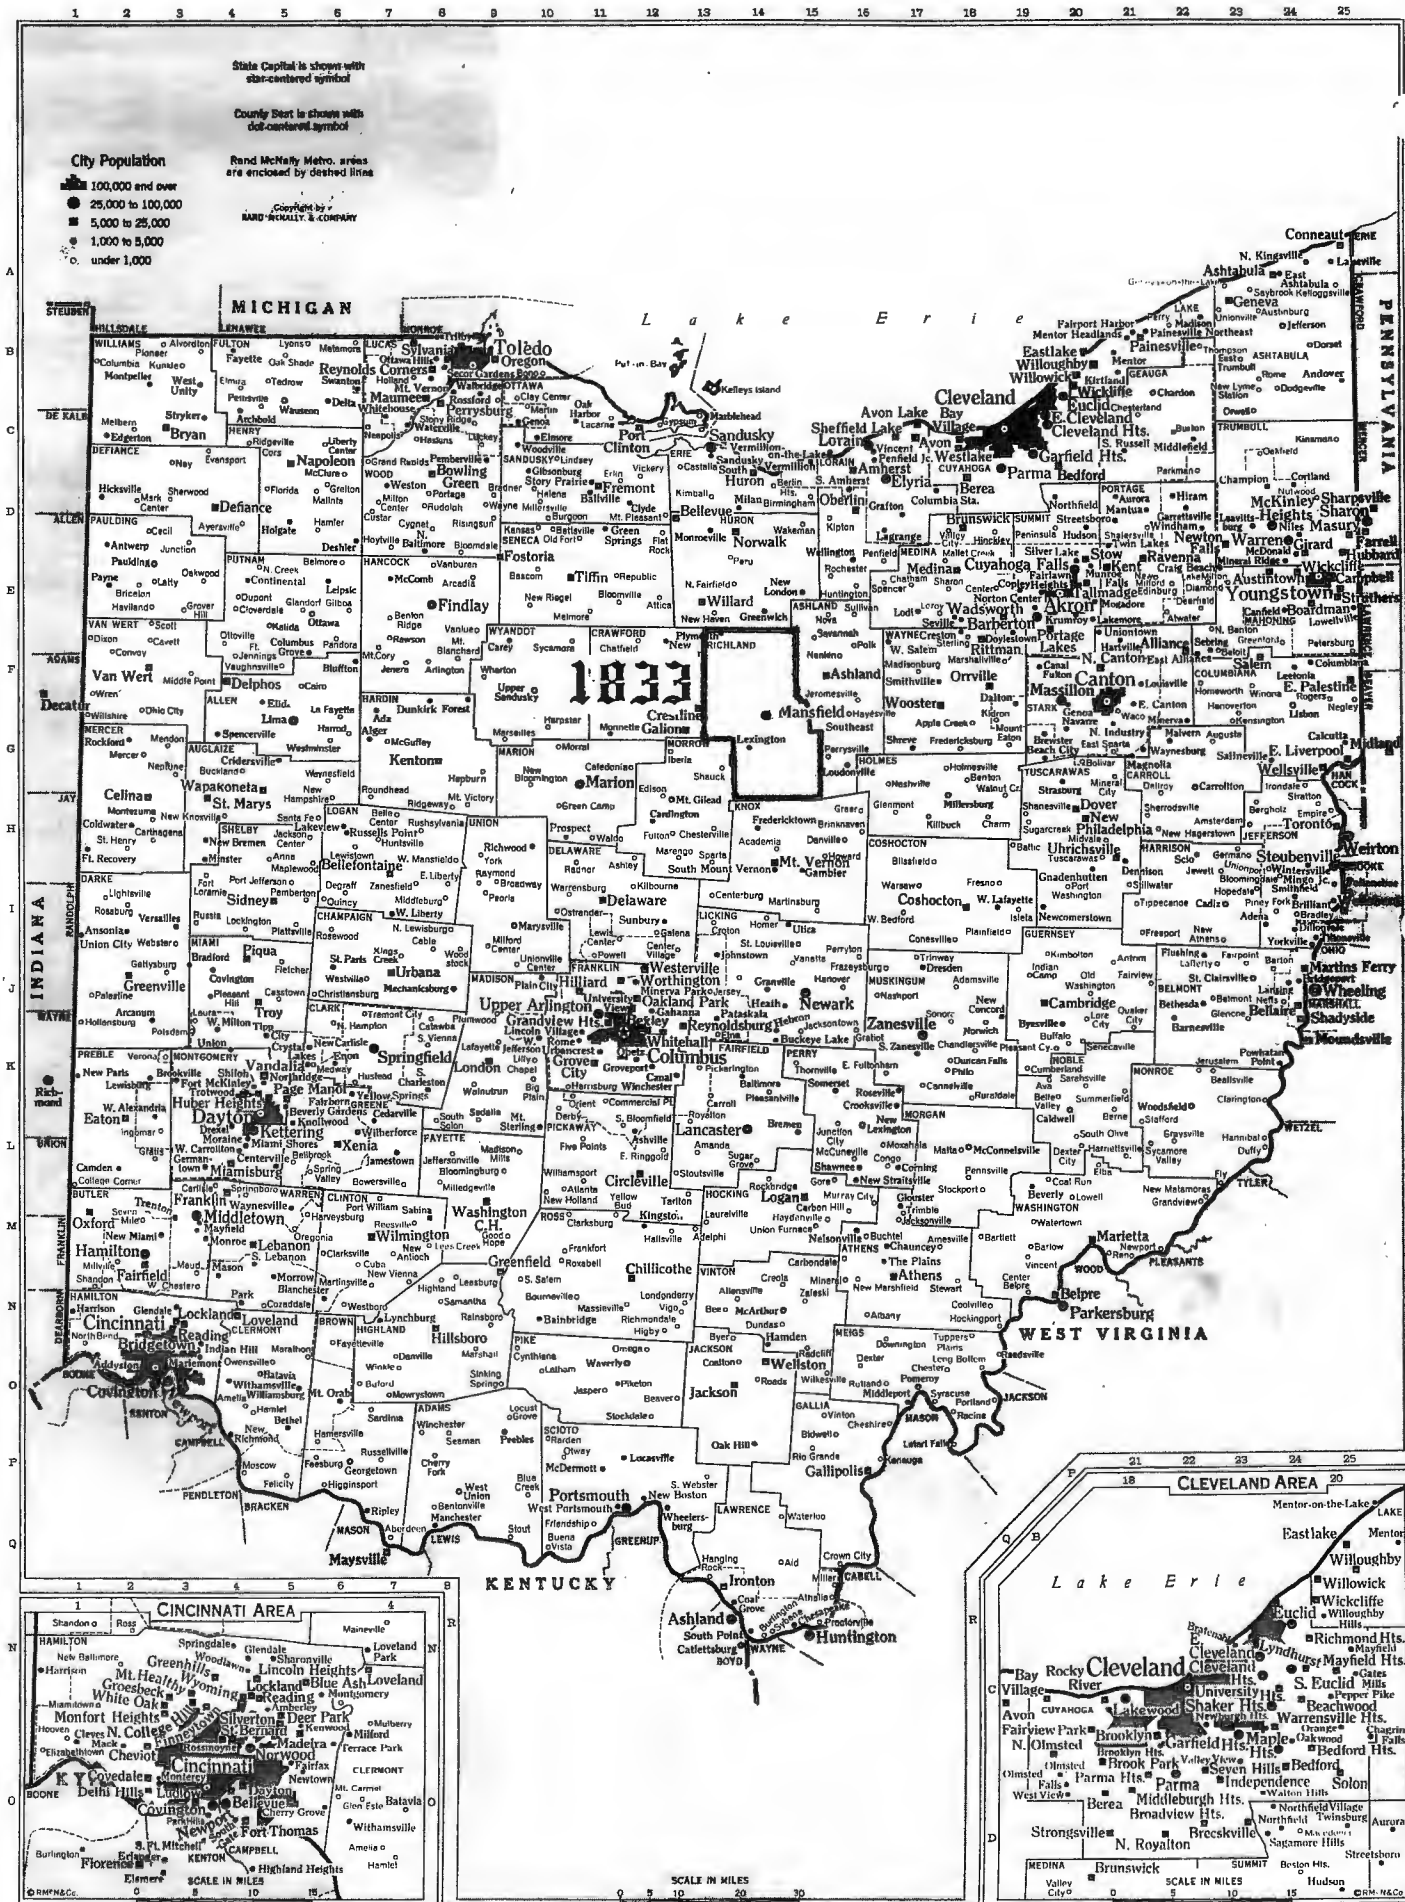

From your friend very respectfully,

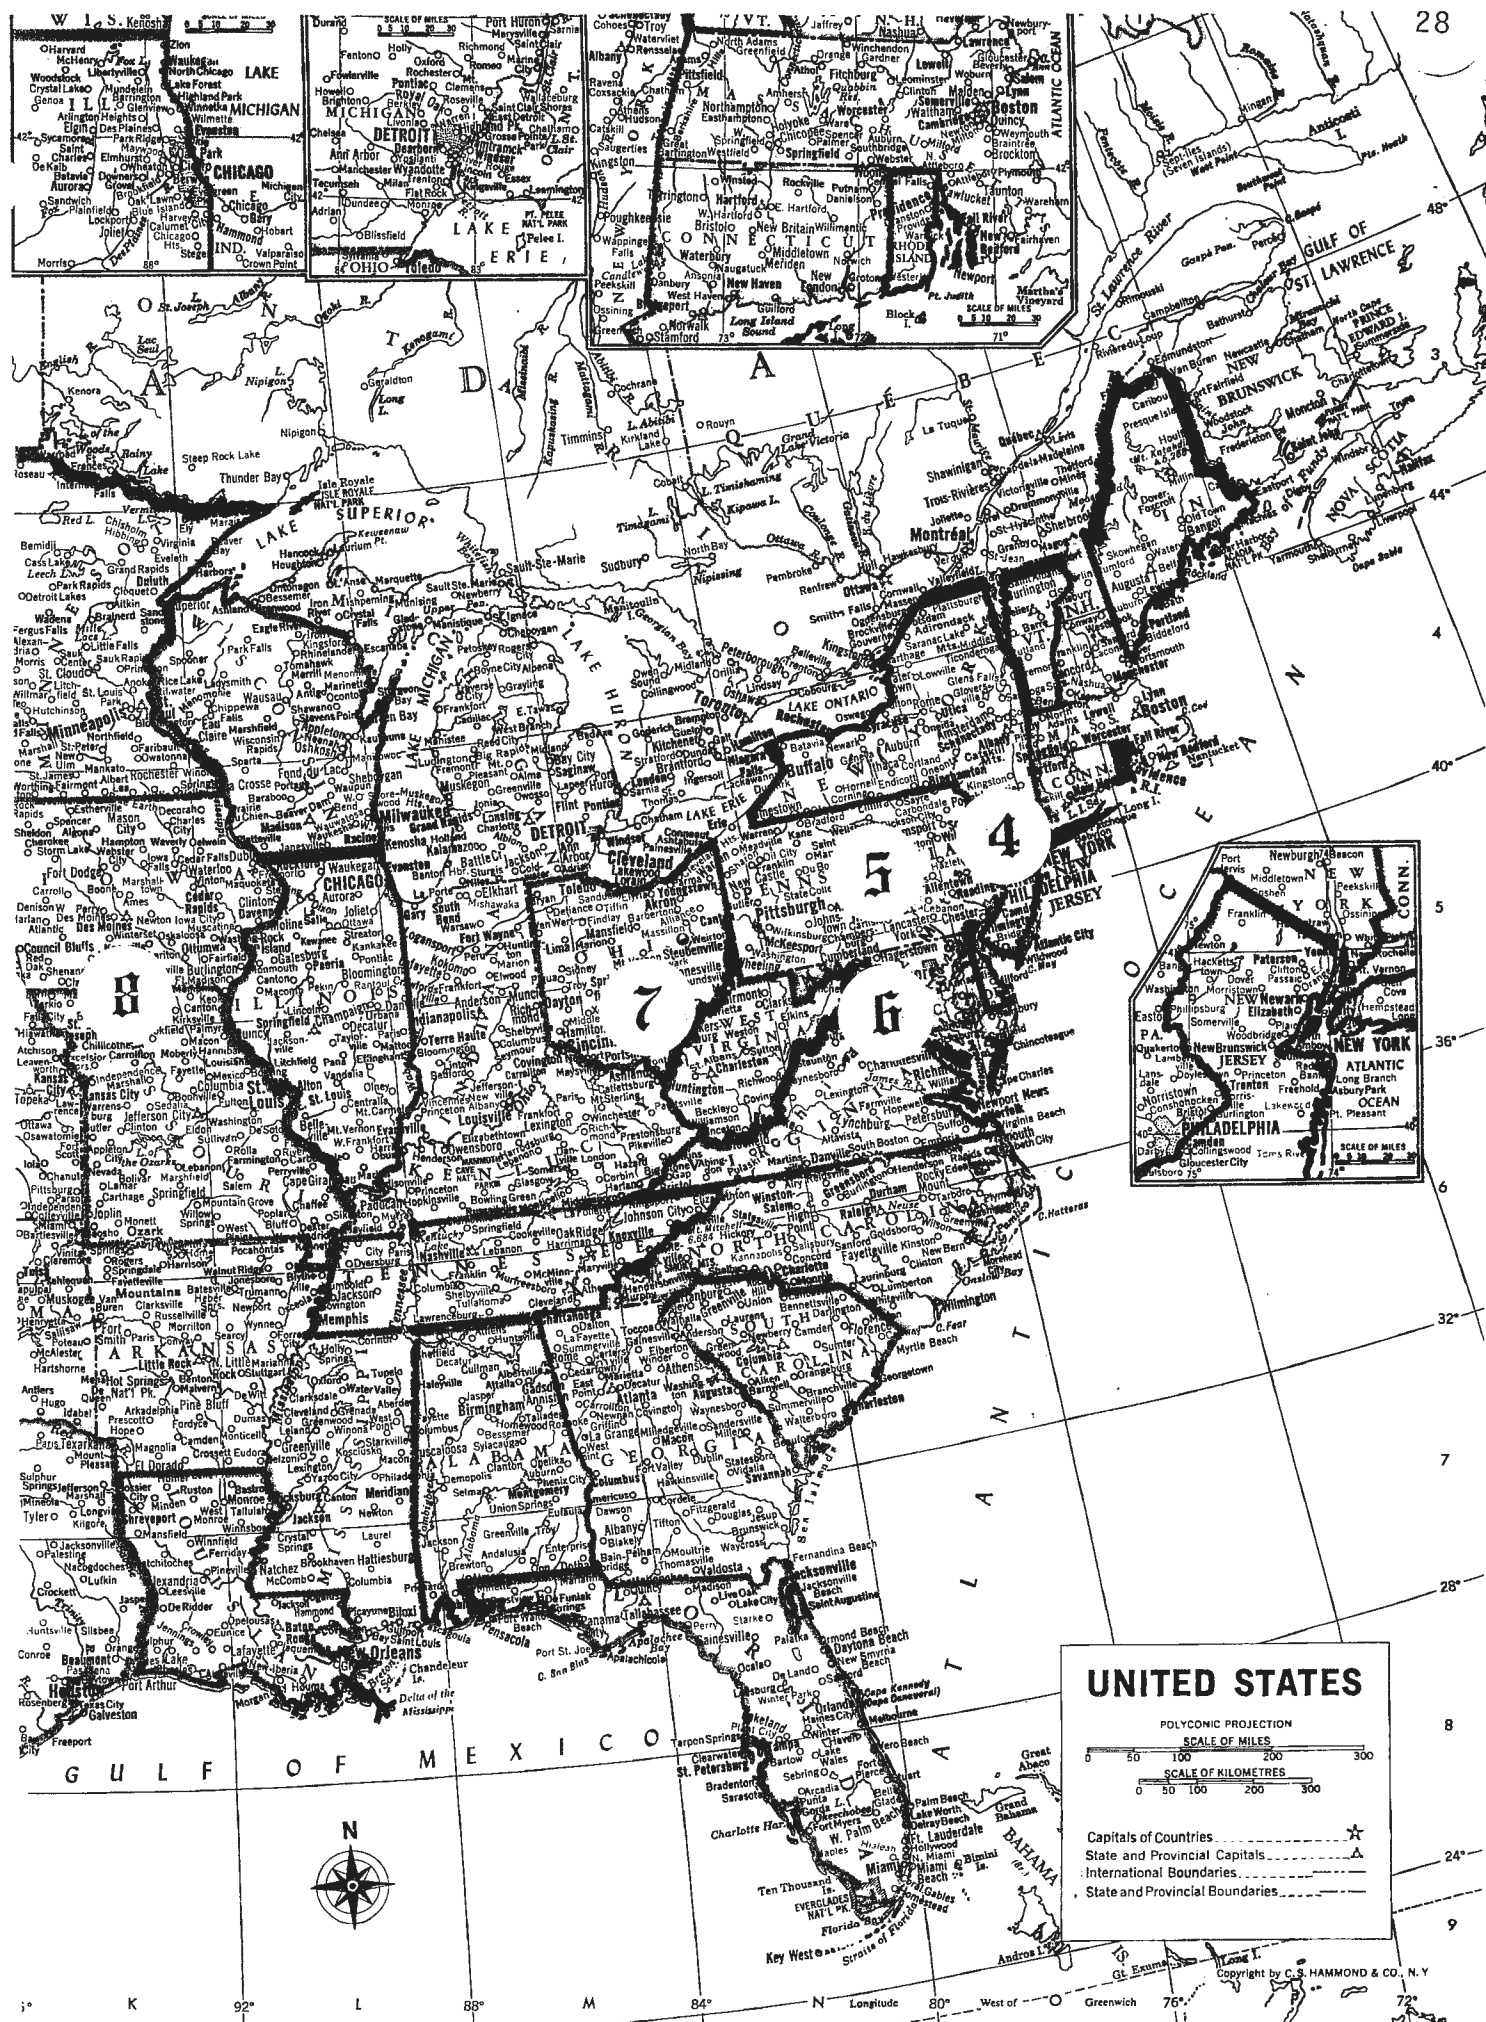

James Buchanan

This letter was written during the Civil War (1860-1865) at which time Abraham Lincoln was President. James Buchanan was President immediately prior to Abraham Lincoln and it was during his term (1856-1859) that the issues of war were decided.

JOSIAH BARTLETT EYERLY FAMILY

JOSIAH

Josiah Bartlett Eyerly was born in Lexington, Ohio, on October 28, 1834. Josiah grew up on the farm and helped Samuel improve the land while his father worked at his trade as carpenter to support his family. At the age of 18, Josiah went to Jasper County, Iowa and settled in the town of Monroe. During his first years in Monroe, he went into a dry-goods store as clerk and was also postmaster of Prairie City, Iowa. After working in the store for two years, his employers showed their appreciation by making Josiah manager of the store, where after one year he became a partner. Soon after this, Josiah was appointed Post Master in Monroe, Iowa.

In September, 1861, Abraham Lincoln called for 300,000 men for the Civil War. Josiah enlisted in Company B of the 13th Iowa infantry and was mustered on October 21 as a private. In March of 1862, Josiah joined a regiment that was to fight the Battle of Shiloh. Because of meritorious conduct in this battle, Josiah was promoted to Sergeant Major of his regiment and a month later made First Lieutenant. Josiah was in the Siege of Corinth, the Battle of Iuka and was with General Grant and the 17th Army Corps until after the Fall of Vicksburg. In the winter of 1864, he was appointed Mustering Officer for the District of Vicksburg.

On November 1, 1864, Josiah was honorably discharged from the service after three years. Upon discharge in 1864, he returned to Monroe and was elected County Treasurer of Jasper County in 1865 and again in 1867.

After retiring from the Treasurer's Office, he became President of the Monroe Bank and then went into the real estate business in Newton, Iowa. On October 1, 1867, Josiah was married to Charlotte Piper (born, October, 1843), a native of Michigan. In February, 1878, Charlotte died leaving one child, William. On August 27, 1879, Josiah married Zerna Townsend (born 1835) who died on April 24, 1886. On September 24, 1889, Josiah married Celia Grandrath (born April 12, 1859, died July 11, 1948) of Grant County, Wisconsin. By this union were born: Josiah, Fred, Ralph, John and Frank.

Josiah Bartlett Eyerly died March 11, 1907 in Newton, Iowa.

WILLIAM ROSECRANS EYERLYWILLIAM

William Rosecrans Eyerly was born September 21, 1836 in Lexington, Ohio. As a young boy, William helped his father farm the land until the Civil War came. On October 5, 1861, William enlisted in Company B, 13th infantry of the Iowa Reserves. On October 21, 1861, William was called to active duty as a private. He was in many prominent battles such as Shiloh, Siege of Vicksburg and all the battles of the Atlantic campaign under General Grant. On August 27, 1862, William was promoted to Fifth Corporal and re-enlisted and was re-mustered into the Army on January 1, 1863. On July 22, 1863 William was killed in the Battle of Atlanta.

CIVIL WAR HISTORY ¹³

The Western Campaigns of 1863 were waged by the North to gain control of the Mississippi River and to open the way for the invasion of Atlanta, Georgia. The major battles of this campaign were:

1. Murfreesboro (Stone River), Tennessee; fought December 31, 1862, to January 2, 1863, with General Rosecrans leading 43,000 Union troops against the forces of General Bragg and his 37,000 Confederate troops.
2. Vicksburg, Mississippi; fought during June and July, 1863 with surrender of Vicksburg taking place on July 4, 1863. During this battle, General Grant and Admiral Porter commanded 75,000 Union troops against General Pemberton's 40,000 Confederate troops.
3. The Battle of Port Hudson, Mississippi; July 9, 1863.
4. The Battle of Chickamauga, Georgia; September 19 and 20, 1863.
5. The Battles of Chattanooga, Lookout Mountain, Missionary Ridge, Tennessee; November 23 through 25, 1863.

These battles gave the Union Army complete control of the Mississippi River and the approaches to Atlanta.

The Western Campaigns of 1864 and 1865, were waged to break the industrial power of the South. The major battles in this campaign were the battles for Atlanta and Savannah, Georgia.

The major battles leading up to the surrender of Atlanta on September 2, 1863, were fought on July 20, 22, 29, 1863. General Sherman who commanded 112,000 Union forces faced General J.E. Johnson and Hood of the Confederacy who commanded 71,000 troops.

A description of the Battle of Atlanta:

"General Hood made a furious charge July 20 upon the Union Army but after an hour's engagement was furiously repulsed and was forced to fall back within his lines. Two days later, he attacked a second time but was again driven back into the city, suffering the loss of 10,000 men. General Sherman now prepared to cut off Hood's communication by marching around Atlanta, capturing its railroads on the east and south and then taking the city from the rear. On September 2, 1863, General Hood evacuated the city and fled. The Federal Army took possession at once."¹⁴

Because of the Union Army successes during the Western Campaigns of 1863 through 1865, the Confederate Armies through exhaustion of manpower and supplies, were forced to surrender. On April 9, 1865, General Lee of the Confederacy surrendered to General Grant at Appomattox Court House, Virginia.

The following letters were written by William Rosecrans Eyerly to his father Samuel Eyerly.

April 6th, 1863.

Father:

I cannot help calling your mind back one year ago today, the 6th day of April, 1862. Today reminds me so much of that day--only in one particular-- the beauty of the day, clear and pleasant. Otherwise, nothing seems natural. Just at this time of the day was about our hardest struggle.

When I think of the not only hundreds, but thousands, of lives that were given for our dear country, and many of them fell in my presence, and in my sight -- yes, several fell by my side.

At the same time my own self was not entirely free from the enemy's bullets and shells. Yet how thankful I feel to the Allwise that my life was spared through that great battle, and other battles and dangers through which I have passed.

I say when I think of the many, many dear lives that were lost one year ago today in the defense of our country--our government--our all; then to think of the many, many sad hearts that the battle made; as now I turn my eyes to the North--yes, the free North, and see and read of the people that are against us--against the best Government on earth, and above all against God, and yet these people--no, not people, but traitors--are not satisfied with the blood that has already been given for their benefit--for their country, and they are still doing all in their power to protract war.

Now, Father, I will tell you who I mean. I mean those devils known as "Copperheads"--how I do hate them. They are as much meaner than the rebels in arms against us as the devil is meaner than an angel in Heaven. I consider a rebel soldier a gentleman beside one of these northern Copperheads.

Our good democrat friends that are in the army hate them ten folds worse than the republicans do, and you may guess how bad I hate them.

I tell you we have some good union democrats soldiers in the army, and I advise those fellows at home that call themselves democrats and are against the war, to change their names, for our loyal democrats will not claim them as democrats any longer.

Father, you need not be discouraged in the way those northern traitors are going, they will not amount to much in the end, yet I confess that they have prolonged the war, but the Union army is sound, and it does my soul good to daily hear the sentiments of the soldiers of different commands. They all cry "The Union--The Administration, The enforcement of Law, The Old Flag, and the death blow to slavery." I will not begin to tell you how the soldiers hate the copperheads in the North. There is hardly a moment in the day, from Reveille until Tattoo but what you'll hear someone cursing the Copperheads, Therefore be content.

The army is with the Union, The Union is with the army, and we calculate to carry this war through until we have gained the victory.

I know that Providence is with us, and I believe that Providence selected good, Honest Abraham Lincoln for our national Leader; Therefore I am not yet discouraged and feel today the same as I felt the moment I enlisted.

I am willing to give my country my support--never, no never--shall we suffer a Secech Flag to wave over the Old Stars and Stripes.

It is true that soldiering is a hard life, but if we cannot have a Government to live in, then there is no use living at all; and my greatest hardship of soldiering at the present time rests on my mind, and that is this--that I cannot put an Enfield rifle ball through the heart of every Copperhead or traitor of the North.

Father, never suffer one of them to say a word against the Administration or the Soldiers.

Kill them on the spot, and charge the deed to your son, Will.

Now you may think this is great advice for a son to give to his Father, but had I time I would endeavor to give you a short discourse on the duties of the loyal men at home. I do firmly believe our loyal men have been too still in this matter and have let the Copperheads go too far.

How do you think that we feel when we read some of their resolutions that are made before the eyes of our loyal men declaring this an unholy war and pointing the finger of scorn at us soldiers? Has this not been practiced for months in the north by these traitors? Would we suffer this if we were in reach of them? God forbid! Now here is what I mean by saying our loyal men have been too still in this matter; but I do rejoice to think there is a better day coming. All we ask is for these men to be marked and given in the hands of the soldiers at their return.

Well, Father, I guess I must bring my remarks to a close. You may expect stirring news from the Mississippi River soon. Vicksburg will doubtless fall before very long.

I will try and write before long again. I received a letter from Brother George a couple of days ago. He was well, and at Paducah, Kentucky.

I was informed today of the death of Enos Whitacre. He was in the 30th Iowa at Vicksburg.

Westfall, from our company started to Alton, Ill., with some prisoners today. From there he goes home to Monroe on a furlough. You can see him and learn how we are in general. There are many things I could tell you that would interest you concerning the South, but have not the time. Did you see our Resolutions and our inspection recommend? Adjutant General Thomas, from Washington, D.C. will inspect our brigade tomorrow.

Give my love to all, and let me hear from you as soon as you can.

Your Son,

William Roscrans Eyerly.

Dear Sisters:

As it has been sometime since I have written to you, or have the privilege of so doing, I thought I would try to write you a short letter on this occasion, yet I may not be able to finish it now, from the fact that since the middle of April (last) time for writing for us soldiers has been rather limited, as we say it is dangerous to be safe, not knowing what moment we may be called in line of battle, and thinking that you may have some idea of our position in the last few weeks, it will not be worth my while to testify or apologize. Well girls I received your ever welcome letter some time ago and as you see have failed to answer until the present. I was so glad to hear from you. You wrote me such a long letter. Indeed I am always glad to hear from home. I was sick in the hospital when I received your letter and you may know such medicine as a good letter from home is as good as anything a sick soldier could take. At least I thought so. Although I was pretty sick at the time. Indeed Nancy (Nancy Jane Eyerly) I was surprised to hear of you teaching school yet much, yea very much pleased to hear such good news. You truly have my earnest hope that you may succeed, finally with your newly but honorable occupation. Success with you. I am glad to hear that you are all getting along so well. Hattie (Harriet W. Eyerly) you and Cassie (Catherine Ellen Eyerly) must study hard, your time will come next to teach. You said you had to work some out in the field. Well, girls this may look hard to you and seem hard yet let me tell you as a brother, it is an honor to you. Indeed I would not want one of my sisters to be raised like these girls are here in the south. Too nice to wash their own faces, law me. Girls if I could just be with you to tell you about the south and it's ways, I know that I could make you laugh and cry both at once. I was conversing with one of the band box girls the other day and you bet I made it interesting. I do wish and would have given anything if you could of been present and heard the interesting conversation. Her name is Miss Mollie Bell Brown, but she herself was not very brown. Good looking of course! Death to Yankees is the motto of the women down here and that was hers, when I commenced the conversation, but before we parted she proposed to marry and take a trip north, but I concluded that she would be of little force in a cornfield or a kitchen, therefore I concluded not to marry. The above happened at a Secesh residence near our picket line, while I was on picket. There are some of our soldiers that marry this southern aristocracy, but it is not Will. Well girls, I hardly know what to tell you about this long contended battle here at Vicksburg, but I can tell you one thing Vicksburg is well surrounded by the Yankees, however, not in our possession yet, but it is certain that it must fall some time sooner or later. I do not think the Rebs can stand it much longer but we all have been deceived and still we may be more so. The women and children are in their caves which have been prepared for them -- which all of our shelling does not hurt them but little and I presume that as long as the grub lasts they are all right. The men or soldiers have protection under the ground, but I think that they must hoist the white flag. We can stand it as long as they can. We just as well camp and fight around Vicksburg as elsewhere. I guess it is three years or during the war anyhow. We came here about a week ago to check a force from coming in our rear. It takes work here sure and it is the opinion of many that the big battle will be fought here in the rear of Vicksburg. We are some sixteen miles East of Vicksburg. We have skirmishing near every day with the Rebs. They are on the East side of the Black River and we are on the West side. Some three nights ago our company was on picket and we were attacked. The Rebs first fired into us. We gave them the same back and had quite a little fight by the light of the moon, but fortunately no one was hurt on our side. This is the way soldiering goes. Four companies from our regiment, A, B, H, and F and two pieces of artillery was ordered out night before last to build a fort on Black River. We worked all day yesterday in sight of the Rebel pickets. However in the morning we chased them back a piece and took possession of a large house stored full of Rebel furniture, some forty thousand dollars worth. I captured some splendid nice books that I would like to send to you girls, but that is out of the question. Sending such things North now days is played out. I do not know whether we will be ordered back to Vicksburg in the rifle pits or not. I guess we will have our hands full here until Vicksburg is surrendered. It would seem funny to you girls to see our boys and the Rebels talk to each other from the rifle pits, and of sights, cease firing, and meet each other half way and talk until morning, then shoot at one another during the day. This is a daily occurrence or was when we were there. Our men have dug under some of their forts and blown them up. That is what the Rebs call a Yankee trick. But I must stop this subject for this time by saying that our army is in good spirits and feel as sure of Vicksburg as Caleb did the hen when he had her by the tail. We feel more so for we have Vicksburg by the head and tail both. But I must hasten on. George (George W. Eyerly) came to see J.B. (Josiah B. Eyerly) and I the other day. He left here Sunday morning. He stayed with us some two days and nights. I was so glad to see him. He is as hearty as a buck, fatter than I ever saw him. He was in good spirits. Their regiment is some twelve miles from here at Hains Bluff. J.B. is well, health is tolerable good, considering our circumstances in which we are placed. We have laid out without tents since the middle of April. I begin to feel pretty stout again, but not as well as I was before I was taken sick. The weather is awful warm and dry. Dust half knees deep or less. Well I must bring this to a close. You must write as often as you can. Tell Ras (Erastus S. Eyerly) to write. Be good girls. The Union will come out all right after while. Write and give me all the news. We have blackberries, apples and peaches by the wholesale. Give my love to father, mother and kiss all the little fellows for me. So good by for this time. From your brother Will R. Eyerly. As ever.

P.S. Direct William R. Eyerly, Cairo, Ill.
Company B., Iowa Volunteers.
Omit the % of Captain he has played out.

Will.

Williams last letter written home; he was killed on July 22, 1863.

Battlefield in front of enemy,
seven miles from Atlanta, Georgia
July 11, 1863.

Dear Father:

Would a few words from the rifle pit soldier, Will, be of any comfort to you in these bloody days of war? I know that a line from Father just now would be a great comfort to me, as I have not had such since I left home after my bed furlough expired; but now is not the time for me to complain, for truly I have great reasons to be very thankful to the Allwise for his goodness toward me in sparing my life through the long contended battle in which we have been engaged, day and night, for thirty-one days, and the end is not yet, at least you would think the end is not yet, could you see the great works in front of us & hear the cannon boom & the crack of the muskets. Yes, while I write this the shells & bullets go whiz, whiz over my head. I tell you this campaign--this battle surpasses anything ever known in the world.

Father, I will not pretend to write much news on this occasion and in my present circumstances, from the fact it seems almost impossible for me to even pick up enough courage to try to write. Our company came off the skirmish line last last night after a long heat of 30 hours without anything to eat save a hard-tack, so you may bet I do not feel in a very good plight for writing; but I would just say that we caused the Rebs to evacuate their strong position on the Kenesaw Mt. By flanking them on the night of the 2nd our corps moved for the right wing of our army. The 3rd, 4th, 5th of July were days long to be remembered by the writer, as well as all of us. We made some desperate charges each day and took several lines of the enemy's works. In the three days we drove them about 6 miles taking a great many prisoners. Our loss of the 17th corps was pretty heavy. The loss in our brigade since the fight commenced is about 200. We lose some every day. Our company has been very lucky so far--we have had none killed yet, but 4 wounded. Several of us have been grazed a little. I have had my eyes filled with (dust) from the balls striking the ground and had a limb fall on me that was cut from a tree by a shell, but did not damage me so much but what I held my own so far. I tell you, we have some close work here. But I must hasten on.

Night before last the Rebs fell back across the river from our front. They left a very strong position & some splendid works--a flank move on our left caused them to fall back, but I would say that we were in the skirmish line when they commenced to fall back. Their rear guard had scarcely got out of their fort before we were on them. Ben Hughes & I were among the first in the fort. We took several prisoners, I captured a splendid rifle gun but was compelled to turn it over as I could not take care of it these times. I did wish you could have had it to keep for me until I come home--if so lucky.

The enemy is now on one side of the river and we are on the other. Yesterday was the 4th Sunday in succession for us to fight. I long for a good quiet Sunday again. Our army is becoming very much fatigued. I tell you we are a tough looking bunch of boys, but for all our hardships we feel in good spirits. I guess we will make Atlanta after a while but it goes awful slow. We must have rest before long, sure. The weather is awful, awful hot and dry. We have no very late news from the East but we have no fear but will make it all right with Lee and Richmond.

Had you a big time in Monroe on the 4th? We had a time here, one long to be remembered. I do not fancy celebrating the 4th the way we did here but we all hope for better times in the future. I hope this hasty note will find you all enjoying good health. I stand hard knocks much better than I expected I ever could stand them but for my own satisfaction I would just like to have a group picture of the Monroe boys NOW to compare them with the one now in Monroe.

But I must close. I send my love to all of you. Do write often.

Truly, from your son, Will
William Rosecrans Eyerly

GEORGE WASHINGTON EYERLY FAMILY

GEORGE AND CLARA BAILEY EYERLY

George Washington Eyerly was born January 17, 1843, in Mansfield, Ohio. He attended the common schools in Washington County and at Brighton, Iowa. George assisted his father in farming until the Civil War broke out. On August 11, 1862, George enlisted in Company E, Fortieth Iowa Volunteer Infantry, and participated in the Battle at Jenkins Ferry on the Saline River, in Arkansas and was wounded when a spent bullet passed through his knapsack and clothing, causing a surface wound. He was also in the Siege of Vicksburg, under the command of General Grant. He was mustered out on the reservation of the Cherokee Nation, August 16, 1865 at Fort Gibson.

In the fall of 1865, George returned to Madison County to resume his work as an agriculturist. On December 7, 1865, George married Martha Angeline Howell, a native of Coshocton County, Ohio who was born February 18, 1849 and died October 24, 1892. To George and Martha were born thirteen children: Luella, Vinson, Celia, Virgil, Frank, William, Charles, Earl, George, Loren, Ray, Fred and Ralph.

On December 31, 1897, George married Clara Bailey. She was a native of Madison County, born August 14, 1873 in Douglas Township. Her parents were Moses and Mary (Chandler) Bailey. Her father was born on January 15, 1825 and her mother in 1832. (Mr. Bailey learned the carpenter's trade in his youth and was a cabinet maker for a number of years. In 1852 Mr. Bailey came to Winterset and founded one of the first jewelry stores in town. To Moses and Mary Bailey were born 11 children, Clara being the ninth in order. Clara was reared in the Quaker faith but identified with the Methodist Episcopal Church in her locality.)

To George and Clara were born seven children: Beulah, Emerson, Howard, John, Mabel, Lloyd, Samuel.

On May 5, 1927, George Eyerly passed away in Winterset, Iowa. On February 29, 1964, Clara passed away.

ARTHUR AND SARAH ALICE EYERLY FERRIN FAMILY

HAZEL - SARAH

Sara Alice Cary was born July 8, 1857, in Washington County, Iowa. At the age of 14 after her father's death, Alice moved to the home of her brother Erastus, in Holt, Missouri. While living in Holt, she met Arthur Ferrin and they were married in Oregon, Missouri, on December 25, 1875. They later moved to Greenwood County, Kansas, in 1895, and the following year came to Comanche County, taking up a homestead in Wilmore.

From this union were born eight children: Eugene, Carrie, Bryant, Elsie, Fred, Cora, Hazel and Horace.

Sara Alice died on March 20, 1943 in Wilmore, Kansas.

Arthur Ferrin was born in New York State in the County of Essex on May 6, 1848. When he reached his 18th birthday, he came west and settled in Holt County, Missouri. In 1885, he and Sara moved to Greenwood County, Kansas and in less than a year moved to Comanche County in early 1886. In 1914, they moved to Wilmore where both lived until their deaths. Arthur died on February 3, 1926.

A HOME SICK CHILD TO HER MOTHER

Eyes of brown my mother has,
Dark and clear;
Rich the auburn of her hair,
Which the silver gathering there
Makes more dear,

On her brow once smooth and fair,
I can trace
Lines of care and anxious thought
But the deeper they are wrought
On her face.

Still more beautiful and blest
Does she seem.
Shines her soul's unselfish light,
Like the radiant image bright
Of a dream.

In her hands, now worn with toil,
I can see
Patient deeds of thoughtfulness
Untold labor wrought to bless,
Lovingly.

Mother, these poor words of mine
Little tell:
This my heart would fondly say,
That thy daughter far away
Loves thee well.

Wishes for a gift of gifts;
But none other
Than of love, a wealth unmeasured,
Does she bring all sweetly treasured,
For her mother.

This poem was written by Alice Carey Eyerly to her mother Mary Thuma Eyerly in 1871. At the time this poem was written, Alice was fourteen years old.

A letter written by Fred A. Ferrin to his mother, Sarah Alice Ferrin on Mother's Day, 1919, during World War I.

Dear Mother:

This is your day. All soldiers of the A.E.F. have been asked to write special letters today to their mothers.

I suppose at home it is a day particularly remembered this year, as the Mothers of our Nation had the greatest share in saving the world from autocracy. Am sure it is a day of joyfulness and pride to those sons who were represented in the ranks and to those mothers whose sons are lying beneath the white cross. We ought to pause in special consideration, for it is they who have made the greatest sacrifice.

Have attended just a few U.S. military funerals over here, and while the dead were just comrades of mine, scarcely acquaintances, I believe they were the saddest funerals I ever attended. One could not help but wonder about the lad's loved ones far across the waves and how they would be stricken with grief.

Well, Mother, your son's achievements are not worthy of note, but I did the best I could, always conscious that you were with me in your thoughts, and knowing that I should never be able to count the silent prayers you have offered for my care and safety. Many days of anxious waiting have I spent, too, waiting for some word from you. The first three months after leaving Kansas, without a line from any of you were the longest months I ever passed through, and in my lonesomeness it seemed I was a million miles away.

Have a friend here, a Kansas boy, who just last week received word of the death of his mother, and he had been counting the days until he might be with her again. The homeward trip for him will be very sad, while with his mother waiting to receive him it would have been so joyful.

By the time you receive this letter, I expect to be starting home. We are evacuating this place as quickly as we can get cars to ship away the hospital supplies; have ordered 80 cars, and have been loading several every day. Suppose I will be pretty tired when I reach home, but will soon rest up. Will not be as hard a trip back as it was coming over. Came over on an English ship and we were crowded like sardines in a can. Sanitation was bad, food worse and not enough of it. We ate cold storage Australian jack rabbits, stale eggs, cheese and fish--occasionally some jam. Two items of our fare I shall always remember and try to forget the rest--The English have extra fine jam and preserves, and the bread was good; had a flavor like it originated from Kansas wheat.

We were always crowded on that trip, either in stock cars or passenger coaches or in tents while in camp, and slept on bare floors, sometimes in mud, for most days it rained. But since that month of travelling, I have been very fortunate as far as comforts are concerned.

Must close now, and get this off on the train. While this is Mother's Day and was written to you, Dad must share in the letter, too, for my thoughts are also with him.

Love to all,
Fred

My Early Memoirs

As compiled by Mrs. Elsie Ferrin Fisk

September 2, 1961

Elsie Ferrin grew up in a prairie community, where the main social interests centered around the little school or community Sunday school.

Prairie mothers were squirrel-like in hoarding the year's meagre bounty, for cold winters ahead. Wild plums and field corn, where crops were not blighted by drouth or ravaged by grasshoppers. One year on one Sunday service at Greensburg, Sunday school and church dismissed en masse to drive the grasshoppers from a nearby field. There were wild grapes along Spring Creek in season. And greens!

"What is there about that first mess of greens in the spring? They bring back memories of the first fodder years when the time between hay and grass season was not obliterated by refrigerator cars." Yes, we had fun gathering greens, Lambs quarter, Wild mustard-then to the garden where we picked sparingly of radish and beet tops and turnip tops, cabbage, turnips and potatoes.

The first apples grown were cause for rejoicing--soon after followed peaches drying on a roof. Wild game, rabbit, prairie chicken, quail and snow birds added to our diet. Some venison was shared by a distant hunter. Antelope were common as late as 1900 a little south and west of Comanche County. Without refrigeration it was made into "jerky" which the writer found palatable at a home in Beaver County, Oklahoma, settled by newcomers, many of whom established homes in primitive caves to establish a claim right-often contested. An overland trip with friends was made in an open carriage after disembarking from the Santa Fe train at Englewood. About 1900.

A sod school house, a first windmill and earthen floors. Mirages brought a distant settlement in view.

Among the native animals were jackrabbit, muskrat, opossum, coon, coyotes, panther or pumas which preyed on young farm stock, as did the coyotes on fowl.

Badgers were common and polecats with their kittens could be seen in great numbers playing at dusk in canyons or hollows. The prairie was studded with prairie dog villages-their staccato chatter or peculiar bar was a common sound. The rattlesnakes invaded their prairie tunnels, big-eyed owls perched on fence posts, and eagles flew overhead.

After heavy rains, the cattle luxuriated in old buffalo wallows. Cattlemen or farmers hitched up their wagons, fortified with grub boxes and camping facilities for their annual trek to the Salt Plains near the South border, for salt for their stock a few days trip to and from. Salt boxes were strategically placed, taking into account somewhat, locations of sparse trees and water supply.

There was a profusion of wild flowers. First, the Easter cactus hugging the earth, delighting us with its early blossoms-fortelling bare feet soon. Violets along Spring Creek, trailing bittersweet yielding berries for winter bouquets, a wild profusion of prairie daisies both white and blue, the wild rose and other flora which included wild flowering trees and shrubs.

Many weed flowers became glamorous when presented to mother or teacher, who applauded the small hands bearing expressions of love.

When the Indian Territory (Oklahoma) was opened for settlement by whites April 22, 1889, and the Cherokee Strip was opened in 1893, the race for homesites was on; this was an exciting time for not only adults but for children as well, who thought that "filing" on a claim meant literally, in the only language they understood in the mechanics of play, the use of an old file to mark off and set up boundaries, and beware claim jumpers!

Skating in the winter on Spring Creek's ice was a winter diversion. Uncle Loren ever provident stocked a hillside "ice cave" with straw and ice. Both families shared in this luxury during the summer when otherwise ice was unavailable.

Medicine Lodge in adjoining Barber County not far from the homestead was the meeting place for the famous National Indian Peace Council. It is estimated there were 1500 tribesmen from many tribes represented. This was in 1869. As of now, 1961, a pageant is put on about every four years portraying this event along the Medicine River.

Medicine Lodge was destined to become the hometown of Carry Nation of hatchet carrying fame initiating the first national temperance movement, becoming the first president of the National Women's Christian Temperance Union.

Her first husband, a doctor, was a drunkard who died in a few months. Carry later married David Nation, a lawyer, minister and publisher of a Medicine Lodge newspaper.

Carry's forays of destruction with her hatchet were first directed at the saloons in Wichita, where she smashed mirrors, pictures, bars, etc. She was jailed many times but these open saloons were finally abolished. It must be noted here that their owners were also violaters of the law. Carry's crusades received nation-wide attention and the great temperance movement evolved from it. Her home in Medicine Lodge has become a shrine, carefully preserved and tourists from all over the U.S. visit it.

One unique gathering in the older days was the camp meeting assemblies where circuit riding preachers encamped with their congregations on Mule Creek, five or six miles from the Ferrin's home. The grove was near Wilmore Comanche County. Some of the old circuit riders preached "hell-fire and damnation", other more gentle and loving had another approach. Among the first, some were almost literally scared into confession and repentance. Others were too timid for the desired acknowledgement of error. But the in-between group presenting the gospel more forcibly, we thought helped establish the roots from which an awareness of the need for Christian work emerged. We attended these meetings which lasted several days making the trips in wagons, horseback and in old fashioned carriages, taking whatever was necessary for camping during the time, someone returning home to do the chores or sometimes leaving things in charge of a neighbor who did not attend these camp meetings. The big affair at this Campsite on Mule Creek was on the 4th of July, an all day affair when orators held forth. Often they were politicians, but we were never allowed to forget that we were Americans.

Our Sunday school picnics were held down at Spring Creek which ran past our place - it was usually "Children's Day" or what is now (1961), Sunday School Day. There was a program for the children and a short worship service. Last, but not least, we youngsters thought, just lots of fun.

In earlier days, a cowboy and a hired hand, Newt Weeks lived with us. Milk cows we had to milk - wood boxes to fill, eggs to gather and if we were inclined to want a sure-enough vacation at Christmas time it was then our Dad chose as butchering time, justly, as we were needed for this task. But there were compensations. Mother always planned something special for Christmas, when were small, and "tea parties" for our little friends and taffy pulls for older ones during the year.

Our "Christmas Tree" and program was quite an event when fledgling reciters delighted the parents with their talents. There were popcorn balls, homemade candy and strings and strings of popcorn to decorate the Christmas tree, which school boys traveled miles to Devil's Half Acre - to find the very nicest cedar of all - and bring it home in a wagon. Was it 12 miles in a wagon? Once Fred forgot to replace the axe in the wagon - young as he was and late as it was he had to mount a horse and return for it, for axes were costly. As in all raw communities, times improved, even the weather became more beneficent. Burlap wrapped limbs and feet for small children en route to school in winter were replaced by sturdier foot-wear. The family, eight in number, in time inclined in the direction of his or her natural bent. Life was more interesting in our childhood for the family across Spring Creek, where our father's brother, Uncle Loren and family lived.

Our childish feuds occasion many reminiscences and chuckles and the old saying, "Blood is thicker than water," seems to apply where we have learned during our ups and downs, that family affection becomes a reality.

A favorite diversion of these Commanche County children was the hunting for Indian arrowheads and old buffalo horns.

Elsie Faye taught school a number of years. Her second term in the abandoned site of a village, once Avilla. Tall grasses, numerous dug wells, rattlesnakes, ten miles by wagon or buggy to county seat, Coldwater. At the homestead, 15 miles to Coldwater by wagon - was a long trip for a doctor in an open buggy or by horseback to a farm home during a blizzard when blizzards were frequent and babies did not announce their arrival early enough. The younger children were made happy by the tiny pink sugar pills which the doctor always carried.

We had spelling bees, and a Literary or Debating Society, and Sunday school and church at our little school house. Cowboys would sometimes ride 20 or more miles to attend the nonsensical display of histrionics. No pre-election arguments could have been more exciting. But this nonsense added spice to the life of the frontier for there didn't seem to be any inhibitions anywhere - no one hesitated to express an opinion. In time of trouble, people were united-selfless, fought pestilence, storms, ravages, prairie fires and all hazards common to frontier life.

During these years, the little prairie one room schools provided only elementary grades. The teachers, many venturing west from more populous areas were well equipped scholoastically and were daring and unselfish, working overtime adding to the curriculum those subjects calculated to help children to whom high school was unavailable. Those who could, "boarded out" their eighth grade graduates in a Coldwater home where they might attend a high school. Ambitious children found work in the town to help pay their way. And the state made provision for a Teacher's Institute during the summer months where would-be teachers could enroll for short courses, the teaching staff from assorted colleges.

Elsie attended the Teacher's Normal College at Salina, Kansas, with a short business College Course in the same town, managing by loans and help from her hard pressed parents and by working part time, attaining a cherished goal.

Other children of the family had a similar experience.

HENRY EYERLY FAMILY (see p. 18)

Henry Eyerly, fourth child of Jacob Eyerly was born May 10, 1801 near Hagerstown, Maryland. His marriage to Elizabeth Garling, third child of Jacob Garling, on January 22, 1926 was performed by Rev. Rothrauff, a reformed minister, and in following the Garling family tradition, both she and her husband belonged to the Reformed Church.

Henry and Elizabeth lived about two miles south of Hagerstown, Maryland on the road from Funkstown, Maryland, to the Sharpsburg Pike. Henry took up the profession of contractor and many buildings in Washington County, Maryland, show evidence of his excellent workmanship.

Katherine, their first child, married Thomas Mittag and resided in Hagerstown. Hezekiah died in infancy; Elizabeth married Elias V. Winders and moved to Wichita, Kansas. Daniel H. married Emma J. Winders and became a prominent farmer near Clear Spring, Maryland; Mary Ann died unmarried; George W. married Susan M. Kendall and started Eyerly's Department Store in Hagerstown in 1890. Helen, the seventh child, married Henry H. Beeler and died in young womanhood. Benjamin F. married Sarepta Jones and moved to Canton, Illinois in 1864 and engaged in the dry goods business and served as President of the Canton National Bank from 1893 to 1920 at which time he was elected Chairman of the Board. John, the ninth child, died in infancy; Caroline Emma, died unmarried. Albert, the eleventh child, married Susan C. Mittag and became a successful farmer in Washington County, Maryland.

JOHANN JACOB EYERLY FAMILY

Johann Jacob Eyerly arrived in Bethlehem, Northampton County, Pennsylvania on September 14, 1753. Shortly after his arrival in Bethlehem, he met Christina Schwarz, whom he married on August 25, 1755 in the Moravian Church in Bethlehem. In 1757, Johann and Christina moved from Bethlehem to Nazareth, where they gave birth to 4 children between 1757 and 1768. These children were: Johann Jacob Eyerly, Jr., (b. 1757), Anna Christina (who later married Christian Henry Beck on September 26, 1790), Marcia Elizabeth (who married Owen Rice on May 15, 1781), and Anna Maria (b. October 20, 1768, d. August 9, 1770). Johann Jacob Eyerly died in his home in Nazareth, Pennsylvania, in 1796.

On January 13, 1786, Johann Jacob Eyerly, Jr. married Anna Maria Frey in the Moravian Church in Nazareth. While living in Nazareth, Johann and Anna gave birth to 2 children, Elizabeth (b. December 15, 1786), and Jacob (b. June 23, 1789). Shortly after the birth of Jacob, the family moved to Columbia County, Pennsylvania, and settled in the hamlet of Buckhorn, where they became farmers. While living in Buckhorn, three more children were born: Anna Maria (b. April 12, 1792), Johannes Eyerly (b. January 31, 1794), Susanna Theodora (b. December 17, 1796). Shortly after the birth of Susanna, Johann and Anna returned to Nazareth, Pennsylvania, where Johann passed away in 1800.

On March 16, 1815, Jacob Eyerly married Catherine Fornwald in the Moravian Church in Nazareth, Pennsylvania. Shortly after their marriage, Jacob and Catherine settled in the town of Bloomsburg, Columbia County, Pennsylvania. It was here that thirteen children were born between 1816-1849. (two died in infancy): Elizabeth, Anna, Peter, Owen, Michael, Sarah, George, Rebecca, William, Jacob and Elizabeth.

Jacob Eyerly became a leading and influential citizen of Columbia and Montour Counties: From 1830 to 1863, Jacob served as Prothonotary (Head Clerk of the Courts) of Columbia County. When Montour County was formed in 1850, Governor William F. Johnson, appointed Jacob to the same position of Prothonotary for Montour County from 1851 to 1854.

On July 30, 1864, Jacob passed away in his home in Bloomsburg. His will was probated August 5, 1864, in Will Book No. 3, page 484, Michael Eyerly and Robert E. Clark, appointed executors.

I believe that the Eyerly name as it exists in America today stems from Johann Jacob, Henry, Samuel and George Eyerly. I say this because no trace can be found of the other family members listed above after entrance to America or birth, except for Abraham Eyerly and his son. Abraham Eyerly, Jr. an only son, seems to disappear from all records in the late 1700's leading one to believe that he passed away around that time, without leaving any offspring.
